COMMUNITY HEALTH CARE WORKERS TRAINING REPORT

On 20th November 2021 HealthEdu has carried out a training between healthcare experts and community healthcare workers. This time, HealthEdu has thought about Community Healthcare workers; as they generally have a close understanding within the community they serve. They also pose as a true bridge to understanding of the needs of their community far better than any outsider. They typically serve as a link between the community and the healthcare system. Community Health Workers have been involved in day to day follow up of patients with COVID-19 since its start in Rwanda.

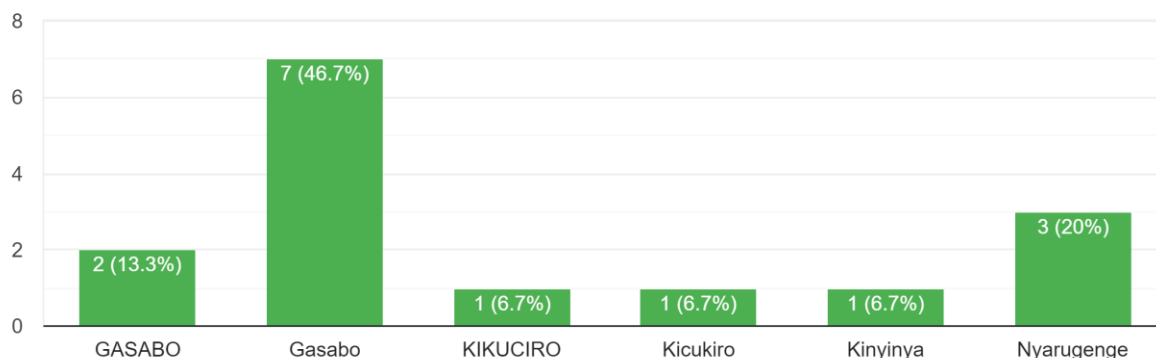

Training details

1. Registration

The health community workers have registered themselves through the HealthEdu link shared. 15 CHWs from 3 districts (Gasabo, Kicukiro and Nyarugenge) have registered and fulfilled all requirements for attendance as it is shown in the following details.

After all the presentations there was an open discussion between CHWs and instructors on all presentations given by asking questions and knowing what home messages are taken and how the knowledge gained will be shared with other community healthcare workers.

CHWs committed that they are going to share the knowledge with other workmates in their villages as through this training they have gained new information about COVID-19 Management, Vaccines and other more related information as they said in their testimonies.

5. Attendance

86.6% were present where 13 CHWs of the registrants were present and 2 absent for no reason. The 4 facilitators and 4 HealthEdu team members were also present. See the detailed figures

Conclusion

The training was successful despite the two participants who didn't attend for no reason. The package was delivered 100%, Time was accurate and CHWs appreciated the knowledge shared referring to their testimonies. The only challenges were that we trained few community healthcare workers due to limited budget and COVID-19 preventive measures.

On this appendix there is link for training records and CHWs testimonial records.
